Vitamin C promotes tissue healing and integrity, enhances immune function, has an antihistamine effect, an antiviral and antibacterial effect. It is required for the production and maintenance of collagen by its part in the synthesis of chondroitin sulfate and the synthesis of hydroxy proline from proline. It plays an active role in the production of neurotransmitters. It is involved in lipid metabolism, particularly in its role in Carnitine synthesis and cholesterol metabolism. It is a component of major drug metabolizing enzyme systems. It is extremely important in wound healing and immune function. It is also important for the eyes and vision.

What is Rutin?

Rutin is a flavonol glycoside composed of quercetin and rutinose. It has antioxidant, anti-inflammatory, anticarcinogenic, antithrombotic, cytoprotective and vaso-protective activities.

What is Xylitol?

Xylitol is a sugar alcohol that has many uses. It stops the production of tooth decay causing acid. It enhances the remineralization of teeth. It is absorbed more slowly than sugar and it does not contribute to high blood sugar levels. It increases the activity of neutrophils and helps control oral infections of candida.
